

Town of Friday Harbor publishes book of winning poems

[August 2020] The Town and its Friday Harbor Arts Commission have published Friday Harbor Poetry Gardens--a book of the winning entries in its first poetry garden contest. Thirty of the 271 entries submitted by local poets were selected for publication and for display at four outdoor poetry gardens within the town.

The book includes maps to four gardens located on the town waterfront below Downriggers Restaurant and at the San Juan Community Theatre, the Mullis Community Senior Center, and the Post Office.

The limited edition book is available free at Town Hall and other select county locations. Publication of the book was made possible wholly through a generous donation by Suzy Mygatt Wakefield.

Rebecca Cook, photo